Four Most Romantic Matrimonial Alliances.

A Bright Daughter's Strategy—Married at the Ohio State Capital—A South Carolina Couple's Flight.

[Philadelphia Times, November 13.]
Nashville girls are whispering to one another about a delightfully romantic affair in which a local Juliet and a Louisville Romeo bear the leading parts. The young persons concerned met last August at the Blue Lick resort, and while drinking the bitter waters they slipped the sweets where-with Cupid conceals small heartburnings and little agonies innumerable. The upshot of the courting at the springs was that the girl's father refused to countenance the lover's suit. The old gentleman's nature is not inclined to the whims of a hundred fold in the young man's case. Father and daughter returned to Nashville, and, October having passed without further trouble in the matter, the former began to look upon the case as incident of mid-summer madness—easily on and lightly off. Therefore, when, on Tuesday of last week, he was asked by his daughter to drop in on his way and deliver a note to a clergyman, he was not without suspicion of what would follow. The note contained a request that the clergyman should call upon the young woman that morning. He went to the house and in the parlor found a party of young folks, central among whom were the Louisville lover and his Nashville lass. Both were dressed for traveling. The preacher was surprised that he should be called upon to marry them at such short notice, but as the bride was under her father's roof in broad daylight and as her father himself had delivered the summons, he performed the ceremony without unnecessary ado. The girl's mother was rocking contentedly in her sitting-room overhead, oblivious of the proceedings a few yards away. The few guests and witnesses dispersed quietly and the bride and groom walked to the depot, whence in ten minutes they left for the North. A tornado swept through all the rooms of the house that afternoon, but at last accounts Cupid's clipper was skimming along the lakes toward Chicago before a fair breeze with all sails set.

"STANDING ON THE CENTRAL STAR."
Not to be outdone by the lover who were married at the summit of Pike's Peak, nor yet by those who were wedded nine miles underground in Mammoth Cave, on Ohio couple last week stood before a preacher in the rotunda of the Capitol at Columbus. The bride was Miss Maggie E. Foote of Yellow Bud, and the groom was Eugene Reeve, a wealthy citizen of Willoughby. They did not contemplate marriage at that time, but while sauntering through the Capitol rotunda the idea presented itself to the young man, and the lady acquiesced. Governor Foster, Attorney-General Smith, the State Auditor, the State Treasurer and a hundred other persons connected with the State Government accompanied the Rev. Mr. Moore to the rotunda and witnessed the ceremony. "And there, while the dim religious light was stealing through the apex of the dome," says the Journal, "and once more the long-haired poet sighed, like a bellows. There was a pause, and the old man with a frost-bitten nose drawled out: 'Ye never tried them same editors with a cash advertisement, did yer?' The poet answered in the negative, whereat the audience significantly nodded their heads and winked at each other."

HUNTED DOWN BY A WIDOW.
When Franklin Brollier of Hancock, Md., went to the wars in 1861, he left home with the understanding that upon his return he should marry Miss Mary Miller, the apple of his eye. After the second Massachusetts campaign, however, Brollier's name in the long list of the dead. Miss Miller's anguish was greater in depth than in length, for before the war closed she married Brollier's rival, becoming Mrs. B. At the close of the war Brollier came out of a Georgia prison and made post haste for his Maryland home. Walking into town at dusk, he seemed a stranger to persons whom he had known a few years before. His first question was as to Miss Miller, and the answer so dazed him that he walked away without making himself known. He reached Missouri before any desire to stop came to him. He settled at Carrollton, in that State, bought land and became known as the "bachelor farmer." Several years ago Mrs. Reeder's husband died. One day the widow, in reading of the survivors of Andersonville, learned that Brollier still lived. She at once began to search for him and recently found him. Last Monday the bachelor farmer was married to his love of twenty years ago.

LOCHINVAR IN THE SOUTH.
A runaway match full of exciting episodes is described at length by the North Carolina papers. Her father looked her in a room, and kept a big dog under the window, so that no ladder could be planted there. She was allowed no other food than bread and water for two weeks, at the end of which time she humbled herself before her parents and was forgiven. On the following day she went to school. At recess her lover rode up on a white horse, caught the girl in his arms and galloped away. The Springfield boys, brothers of the girl, followed the fleeing pair into Rhea county, but the latter reached Evansville an hour before their pursuers and were married. Then the groom defended his bride at the point of the pistol and again mounting his white horse, escaped to the mountains.

A Sad Letter.
[Utica Observer.]

A child of Mrs. Courtney, who keeps house in the jail, interested Edward Earl, the condemned wife-murderer, and inspired him to write the following, a day or two before his execution:
As I sit by my window and look out on the beautiful earth, things seem changed—different from what they were a month ago; the people seem more kind; the sky looks more beautiful and blue; the sun shines brighter; every mouthful of fresh air tastes sweeter and is breathed with a thankfulness I never felt before. No—it is not that I have changed; these leaves, a month ago, were green. Now they are falling to the earth, and I know that before the last one drops I too will fall and lie lower than they. That little five-year-old playing opposite my window is changed—a month ago she would not speak to me; now she is using all her little arts to attract my attention, and will cry when we are separated. She lives in the house with me, and every fair day she seats herself on the grass beneath my window, and we play 'keep house'; she 'makes believe,' she is my little girl come to visit me; I 'make believe' she is, but it's sad play for me.

To-day she has been telling that Pinkey (her doll) is very sick—teeth bother her—but it's September now; when it gets to be October Mary Pinkey will be well again, then I must come down and sing, and that will be, oh, so nice. I promise to be there, she laughs, thinking I am 'making believe.' We both laugh, but when it is erected, I will be there—and sing.

EDWARD EARL.

Two Affectionate Rivals.
[Galveston News.]

There were several men clustered around the stove in the back room of a Galveston saloon, and somehow or other the subject of newspapers came up for discussion. One man said that editors were more jealous of each other than any other class; that they never had a good word for each other, either.

A long-haired youth, with a solemn look, spoke up, and heaving a sigh, said he had some experience with editors, and found them the reverse of jealous of each other; that a Texas editor was always willing to deny himself comforts for the benefit of a brother editor.

"Where did that happen?"
"It happened in a Western Texas town where I lived," sighed the young man.

"I had dashed off a little poem of ten or fifteen stanzas about 'Beautiful Spring.' There were two rival papers in the place—the Bugle and the Trombone. I had heard that the editors were deadly enemies and sighed to shed each other's gore, and I was afraid that if I let the Trombone publish my poem first there would be a deadly encounter."

"I finally resolved to have it appear simultaneously in both papers. When I called on the editor of the Trombone he said the editor of the Bugle had a large family, and he would prefer it would appear in the Bugle, as personally he loved the editor of the Bugle. I went to the Bugle man, and he said the editor of the Trombone was his warm personal friend, and that he would be glad if I would let him have the poem, as it would be putting bread in his mouth and clothes on his back."

"So, owing to the love those two editors had for each other, I couldn't get my poem into either of the papers, and it hasn't been published yet. I never saw men so anxious to help each other out of distress, and once more the long-haired poet sighed, like a bellows."

There was a pause, and the old man with a frost-bitten nose drawled out: "Ye never tried them same editors with a cash advertisement, did yer?" The poet answered in the negative, whereat the audience significantly nodded their heads and winked at each other.

The Value of a Son.
Suit was begun last week in the Superior Court of Alameda county by John E. Boyd against the Pacific Railroad Company to recover $23,500 damages for the loss of his son. On the 16th of October Edward Judson Boyd, aged 7 years, was struck by a locomotive owned by the defendant company at the Berkeley station and received injuries from which he died within three hours. The plaintiff alleges that the track for 1700 feet near Berkeley station is built over a steep and dangerous grade, and is so constructed that a house and trees at the northeast corner of University and Shattuck avenues obstruct the view from the station as well as of the approaching trains; that the rate of speed is so great that the brakes are useless; that the number of men employed on each train is insufficient, and that it was while his boy was on the way to school that he received the fatal injuries. The damages are claimed—first, $3,500 for loss of services of minor child, $20,000, loss of society of minor child, mental anguish, etc.

A Long Tunnel.
The Great Western Railway Company of England is excavating a tunnel under the river Severn, which is to be four and a half miles long. The system of ventilation is so perfect that at nearly a mile from the mouth of the shaft the air is fresh and agreeable, and blasting can be done without any danger to the workman. It is expected that the enterprise will be completed in five years.

A Garden of Roses.
There is in Roumelia a valley known as the Kezanlik, entirely given up to rose culture. During the flowering season it is from the top of the hills on either side one mass of flowers. So saturated is the air with the perfume that it clings to the hair and the clothes, and the scent remains for days on the latter. The essence sells wholesale in Paris at 1,500 francs and 2,000 francs the kilo, and is retailed at 5,000 francs and over.

For Labor's Sake.

Alexandre Dumas, speaking of the immense amount of work he accomplished, said: "I have learned to labor for labor's sake, and not for its recompense. Out of twenty-four hours I write twelve, I read three, two are appropriated to meals, one to exercise and six to sleep. Working at that rate I can easily write fifty-two volumes a year—one per week. I have the material of a thousand plays and romances in my head. I only need the time to write them down."

THE LADIES' LOVE.

A Few Pertinent Hints on the Subject of Dress.

How to Dress Becomingly and Economically—The Value of Taste in Effective Dressing—The Cost of Dressing.

[Harper's Magazine.]
A dress that is so peculiar as to be striking, either from its brilliancy of color or any other cause, should be adopted only by a woman who has many changes of raiment, and so may wear it only occasionally, or the sight of it becomes a bore, even if at first it is interesting from its novelty. The woman who has many dresses can afford also to give it away or convert it to some other use before it is worn, while the unobtrusive dress easily lends itself to some different adjustment, which gives it an entirely new aspect.

A woman who has but one best gown cannot wear it with a difference. Like the true Ophelia offers to her brother, so as to make it suitable to many occasions, especially if she have two waists, or 'bodices,' as the English call them. One skirt will easily outlast two waists, and therefore this is a real saving. But suppose that there is but one waist, or the dress be made all in one piece (than which there is no prettier fashion), and it should be worn one day high in the neck, with collar and cuffs, on another day with the neck turned in and a lace or muslin fichu gracefully adjusted with bows or flowers, and a bit of lace at the wrists, a pair of long sleeves and a more elaborate dressing of the hair, it will be scarcely recognizable. But the dress must be of a very general character, like black silk or some dark color, or the pleasure of the new impression is lost.

The wise person with a small capital never buys any but a good and lasting thing. Each year she adds one or two really solid possessions to her wardrobe, which, treated with care, last her many years. Thus on a really small sum she may dress very beautifully. Without a capital one is often obliged to buy what can last but for a few months; but there is a choice even here.

There is certainly a great economy in a woman's adopting for occasions of ceremony one dress from which she never diverges. It becomes her characteristic, and there is even a kind of style and beauty in the idea. The changing fashions in color and material pass without affecting her. She is never induced to buy anything because it is new. She is always the same. The dress in this case must have a certain simplicity. It costs her little thought and little time, and when the old edition, becoming worn, gives way to the new, the change is not perceived, nor is it noticed when the new in turn becomes old.

Such dresses as this must of course lie within certain limits. Suppose it be a black velvet; it would last with care five or six years. Suppose it be a white cashmere—a dress of small cost; it could, with care, last two seasons; and then, cleaned, last another season or two; and then, dyed, be turned into a walking dress to last two seasons more.

In France, and I believe also in Italy, they have a poetic fashion of dedicating for a certain number of years (five, ten or twenty years, according to the parent's fancy) young girls to the Virgin. I do not know in what way they demonstrate this dedication except in the color of their dress, which is always, for all occasions, summer or winter, blue or white, or white and blue mixed. This affords more variety than at first thought it would seem to be capable of, for any shade of blue may be used.

The San Bernardino Times complains that the lumber yards at that place are already pretty well cleaned out, and that there is every prospect of a lumber famine before the mills get started up again.

LOS ANGELES DAILY TIMES.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1881.

The Los Angeles Daily Times, published on all the trains of the Southern and Central Pacific Railroads; also on the Alhambra, Topeka & Santa Fe and Texas & Pacific roads.

The Times can also be found at the news-stands of the Palace and Occidental Hotels and Rouse House, San Francisco.

Arrangements are now being perfected to have the Times placed in the reading rooms of the leading hotels in this and the Eastern States.

The Times office is connected with the telephone system of this city, and those desiring to advertise in or subscribe for this paper can do so by this means.

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

The constitutionality of the Sunday law will be tested.

A special governmental employ has been sent to Chile.

Sherman has introduced into the Senate a new funding bill.

The Gentiles and Mormons are having further trouble in Salt Lake.

The President's message was read before both houses of Congress yesterday.

The Christianity case has been temporarily stopped by the disappearance of witnesses.

An effort is being made to disturb the existing relations between this country and Chile.

The Republicans of the Senate will support Edmunds' resolution continuing the present Senate committee.

The Republican Senators held a caucus yesterday, at which it was found that they were in a numerical majority in the Senate.

Sitting Bull's surrender has allayed all apprehension of Indian troubles from that quarter.

Senators Miller and Grover both introduced bills into the Senate, yesterday, providing for the restriction of Chinese immigration.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The unjust aspersions against President Arthur at the time of his inauguration have been gradually supplanted by a better feeling in the public mind, yet, everything that he has accomplished since the death of Garfield will weigh as nothing in its effect and influence on the people, when compared with the admirable message that he submitted to Congress yesterday. The message is a model one and will take a foremost place among the Presidential documents of the Nation. In the carefully prepared and dignified address that will be read with pride all over the Nation to-day, the world will see, not the weak and unstable follower of Conkling of six months ago, but the statesman and patriot, President Chester Allan Arthur. Mr. Arthur has, more than fulfilled the expectations of his friends. He has more than satisfied the country. He has thoroughly established himself in the hearts and affections of his countrymen, and he now has a grand opportunity of carrying to a successful end an administration begun under the most unfavorable and disagreeable circumstances.

A "CRANK" ON NOTORIETY.

The position that the Times maintained in an editorial the other day, and a position that is being abundantly verified in the present trial of Guitau, that the assassin is a "crank" on the subject of personal notoriety, is fully maintained by the opinion of James W. Scoville, cousin of Guitau's counsel, in an interview published in our local columns. Mr. Scoville is personally acquainted with Guitau, attended school with him and knew him intimately for many years. He says that Guitau is a perfectly sane man and that his object in murdering the President was to secure the notoriety he could get in no other way.

SPAIN PROGRESSING.

A recent press dispatch gives the cheering intelligence that Spain is seriously contemplating the complete abolition of slavery in Cuba. The Bill, which will be introduced into the Council of Ministers at Madrid, provides for the extinction of slavery, with adequate compensation to the planters, and the satisfactory supply of free labor to fill the gap created by the emancipation of the slaves. When Spain removes the curse of human slavery from her colonies her progress as a Nation will begin in earnest. As long as she tolerates this relic of the dark ages she will remain last and least among the nations of the earth.

AN EASY JOB.

Los Angeles is to have another daily paper. We are glad of this. We have long thought that four or five daily papers were not enough for Los Angeles. In such a climate and soil as they have down there, every man ought to grow his own paper.—S. F. Alta.

If the papers were to be anything like the Alta, not only could every man "grow his own," but every woman and child in the community could raise a "patch" of them without any particular cultivation. We even think they could be raised down here without irrigation. But the people of this place are hardly ready to go into the business of raising journalistic weeds.

SENATOR LOGAN introduced a bill into the Senate, Monday, providing for the placing of General Grant on the retired list. This will be warmly approved throughout the entire country, as there is a unanimous disposition to welcome the early retirement of General Grant.

W. H. CLIPPERTON, an old California editor, died suddenly at Monterey last week. We suppose that during his editorial existence he "clipped" of matter from his exchanges.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

A Crumb from the Herald.

A copy of a new Los Angeles Journal, called the DAILY TIMES, lies on our table. Typographically it is neat and attractive. In politics it is independent Republican, whatever that may mean. Time, which solves many problems, will doubtless dispose of this journalistic conundrum. While the newspaper field hereabouts is just now slightly overcrowded, we welcome our contemporary to a table which is not prodigally spread. Nevertheless, as far as it goes, let us hope that there will be "cut and come again" for it and all other pious laborers in the vineyard.

An Expression from the "Express."

The new daily Republican paper, the LOS ANGELES TIMES, made its first appearance yesterday. The introductory article modestly outlines the policy it will pursue, and gives the usual promises of salutaries. It is a neat looking paper and its columns are well filled with news and selected matter. The Times has the best wishes of the Express for success in a field not very celebrated for solid triumphs to journalism. But this fact will add to the glory of its publishers if they make their paper a profitable venture.

Ahead in One Thing.

[S. F. Chronicle.]

New York enjoys the unsavory reputation of having the dirtiest streets of any city in the country. After rain or thaw the dirt is worked into a paste which is of the consistency and color of shoe-black. The citizens of the metropolis have often complained of this offense, but nothing has resulted from it. The Street Commissioners were indicted a few months ago, but the taxpayers had the satisfaction of paying their counsel fees. Now the leading merchants of Broadway have formed an association; they hire street-sweepers, and Broadway is as clean as a house floor. This shows what may be accomplished when the street-cleaning bureau is not a part of the political machine.

A Sugary Subject.

[S. F. Chronicle.]

The Pacific coast sugar monopoly sells sugar to merchants in Denver and Kansas City, places 1500 and 2000 miles from this city, for three cents a pound less than they sell to merchants of this city. They do this to catch the trade of the cities named. The merchants would otherwise buy from Chicago or St. Louis, where the rates for sugar are 2 1/2 cents per pound less than those fixed by the monopoly on this coast.

A Thanksgiving Spoiled.

[San Diego Sun.]

Had the warning been a minute later, and had the special train containing the S. P. R. R. magnates encountered the runaway car between Casa Grande and Tucson the other day, the probability is that there would have been another Thanksgiving day arranged in the Mussel Slough country.

THE MESSAGE.

President Arthur's Communication to Congress.

An Able and Satisfactory Document—Wise Views on the Great Questions of the Day—Arthur and Civil Service.

[Associated Press Dispatches.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—On the opening of Congress this morning the President's message was read. The message, after deploring the assassination of Garfield, congratulates the country on its prosperous and peaceful condition.

The diplomatic relations of this country with the different foreign powers are mentioned in detail, and suggestions are offered for the guidance of Congress in taking such action as will tend to promote the international interests and strengthen the existing bonds of amity and good will.

The message deplors the lawlessness which exists along the Mexican borders and suggests to suppress the same. It congratulates the country on the peaceable relations between the United States and the South American States, and suggests that the rights and interests of the American Government be carefully guarded in the settlement by arbitration of the disputed question between Costa Rica and Colombia.

The President congratulates the government on the fact that the recent treaty with China has been duly ratified on both sides. The friendly spirit evinced by the Chinese government in conceding modifications should secure a careful regard for the interests and susceptibilities of that people in the enactment of laws regarding immigration.

While the relations with the Hawaiian Kingdom are more than friendly, this government views with great concern the efforts being made to replenish their rapidly diminishing population from outward sources, which threatens to ultimately impair their native sovereignty and independence.

The message commends the efforts being made both by the American and Chinese Governments to put a stop to the demoralizing and destructive opium traffic and suggests some sensible changes in the present system of Consular jurisdiction between this Government and those of China and Japan.

The message regrets that the commercial interests between the United States and Brazil, from which great advantages were hoped, have suffered from the withdrawal of the American lines communicating between Brazilian ports and our own. The President suggests that diplomatic Representatives be restored, even on a reduced scale at Athens, Greece, and at Quito Ecuador. He recommends the propriety of Congress adopting the New Code of

INTERNATIONAL RULES

For prevention of collisions of vessels on high seas. The message mentions the purpose of the Emperor of Japan to establish a Constitutional Government and Parliamentary Congress as a remarkable step towards the complete assimilation with the Western system, and cannot fail to bring Japan into closer and more beneficial relationship with us.

The President concurs in the recommendation of the Secretary of the Treasury, that provision for the coinage of a fixed amount of silver each year be repealed, and hereafter only so much be coined as shall be necessary to supply the demand, and that issue of gold certificates should not for the present be resumed. He believes that the National Banks may properly be forbidden by law to retire their currency except upon reasonable notice of their intention to do so.

The President concurs in the Secretary's views in recommending the abolition of all internal revenue rates, except on tobacco, distilled liquor, and except special tax upon manufacturers and dealers in these articles. He believes in the propriety and justice of repealing the law by which banks and bankers are assessed upon their capital and deposits, and recommends general revision of revenue laws.

These message concurs in the recommendation of the Secretary of the War to increase the navy to 30,000 enlisted men.

The President recommends legislation to prevent intrusion upon lands set apart for Indians.

The message recommends an increase in the strength of fortifications and coast defenses. Also augmenting the efficiency of the navy in order to place it on a footing commensurate with the necessities of the Government. It urges a vigorous prosecution of all persons found chargeable with frauds upon the postal service. It promises a hearty co-operation in any lawful measures to

SUPPRESS POLYGAMY.

It strongly endorses the public school system and advocates popular education, recommending liberal legislation on all educational subjects.

The President refers to the cowboy nuisance and their incursions into Mexico, and confesses the subject is an embarrassing one. He thinks such acts are likely to embroil us with a friendly country. He says there is a lack of jurisdiction for governmental action unless the Territory applies for United States protection. He thinks the army might be used as a posse comitatus to assist the Territorial authorities without practical infringement of the recent law forbidding it to be so used.

The questions growing out of the Panama Canal are considered of grave national importance. Colombia has proposed that European powers should join in guaranteeing the neutrality of the canal. The message says this would contravene our obligations as sole guarantor of the integrity of Colombian territory. Foreseeing the probable reliance of England in the provisions of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty the President has proposed to the

BRITISH GOVERNMENT

a modification of the treaty and the abrogation of such clauses as do not conform with the obligations of the United States towards Colombia.

The message reviews the Indian problem at much length and recommends the passage of an act making the laws in the various states and territories applicable to the Indian reservations within their borders. The President believes that the Indians should receive protection under the law, and should maintain in court his right of person and property. Its exercise would be valuable in his progress toward civilization. The President also favors the enactment of a general law permitting the allotment in severalty to such Indians as desire, and protecting them in the possession of the same. Such a course on the part of the government would influence the Indians to dissolve the tribal relation.

Regarding the civil service, the President believes that appointments to places of public trust should be based upon ascertained fitness; tenure of office should be stable; positions of responsibility should be filled by worthy and efficient officers. He believes in investigating all complaints and punishing all officials for misconduct promptly and thoroughly. The President endorses the policy of competitive examinations for appointment to public office as the true test of fitness of applicants.

The message closes with a statement of the financial condition of the Government as follows: Ordinary resources of the Government from all sources for the year ending June 30th, 1881, are: Customs, $198,159,677.02; internal revenue, $135,264,385.51; sale of public lands, $2,221,863.47; taxes on the circulation and deposits of the National Banks, $8,116,113.73; repayment of interest by the Pacific Railway Companies, $810,833.80; sinking fund of the Pacific Railroad Company, $805,180.54; Custom fees, fines and penalties, $1,225,514.86; fees of Consular letters, patents and lands, $2,244,984.99; total ordinary expenditures of the Government, $260,712,887.59, leaving a surplus revenue of $100,089,404.98.

The Farmers' Ditch Company, organized for the purpose of bringing water into Orangeflower District, have finished their ditch, and water has been running in it for several days. The Fairview ditch has also been put in good order, so that water irrigation will be practiced on a grander scale this season than ever before. The Farmers' ditch carries water from the river; the Orangeflower ditch gets its supply from the Anaheim Water Company.

Two men who went up to the Santiago Grande Silver Company's mine the other day, with a view to bidding for a contract to run a tunnel in the mine, found upon arriving at the locality that the house belonging to the company had been destroyed by fire, together with the tools and bedding contained in it. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary, as there was nothing of an inflammable nature in the house, and it was evident that the flames had been started inside the structure.

Mr. Miller, the engineer of the Anaheim Water Company says that the total capacity of the reservoir will be 58,074,019 cubic feet, equal to four hundred and thirty-four millions, three hundred and ninety-three thousand, six hundred and sixty-two (434,393,662) gallons. The report then goes on to say: "A head of water of 100 inches will consume 86,400 cubic feet in 12 hours (you will not need to sell night water after your new system is completed), and the reservoir will hold water sufficient to run ten heads of water during twelve hours each for sixty-seven days, without taking into account the stream flowing into the reservoir in the meantime."—Gazette.

His bill is a copy of the vetoed Fifteen Passenger bill, except in allowing certain classes of Chinese to come here, the exceptions being similar to those of the Miller bill. The bill was ordered printed and will be referred.

CHILIAN AFFAIRS.

Efforts to Disturb the Relations Between America and Chile.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Martinez, the Chilean minister here, received to-day cable dispatch from Vicuña, Secretary of the Chilean Legation at Paris, calling his attention to a paragraph in the London Standard, in which Vicuña is reported to have said that the Chileans had suppressed Calderon's government, to which the United States had extended special patronage. Vicuña asserts that he said nothing of this kind, and intimates that the Standard purposely misquoted him. Martinez believed that there was in circulation in England and the United States expressions erroneously attributed to Vicuña, promoted by persons who desire to unsettle friendly relations between Chile and the United States.

DESIRES PEACE.

The government views, with great apprehension the continuance of the hostile relations between Chile, Bolivia and Peru, and earnestly desires an early restoration of peace. The continued antagonism of these powers threatens consequences dangerous to the interests of a republican government on this continent. A special envoy has been sent by the American government with full powers and instructions, which it is hoped will bring these states into friendly relations again.

Trouble at Salt Lake.

SALT LAKE, Dec. 6th.—The Mormon authorities are closing saloons and seizing their stocks. No collision has yet occurred, but there is much loud talk and a riot is feared. A new church has recently been organized in this city discountenancing polygamy and the blood atonement. The Quarterly Review, the Mormon magazine, in its last issue calls for the dissolution of the partnership of the Church and State and advises the formation of an anti-Tabernacle party. The President's message inspires some hope among the Gentiles, though many fear that all will end in smoke as before. It is generally admitted that the time was never ripe for crushing out polygamy than now.

A most delightful view of mountain, valley and ocean was obtainable from the hills overlooking the city on Sunday morning. The ocean was plainly visible, with five large vessels riding at anchor in the harbor at Wilmington, and Santa Catalina Island, sixty miles away, seemed scarcely more than fifteen.

Postal cards and stationery must be very scarce in Arizona, judging from the style of an epistle received by a young of this city from Benson the other day. ## "TOO MUCH PIZEN."

A Landlady Raises Her Voice and Tries To Kill Herself.

Yesterday about noon Captain Ketter was leisurely lounging around the police station when a call was sent in for an officer to hasten to the French Laundry, on New High street. There being no officer in camp the Captain gathered up his "billy," put his gun in his hip pocket and started for the scene of the trouble.

On his arrival he found one of the workmen in possession of the place. She was busily engaged tearing up shirts, skirts, etc., and throwing the fragments into the streets. When she saw the noble defender of the peace looming up, decorated with star and brass buttons, she made a dive for a back room, where the proprietress was waiting in fear and trembling for the officer. Before the Captain got to the room the mistress rushed out crying that the woman was cutting her throat. On entering the room the Captain found her with an old butcher knife in her right hand, sawing away on her throat. The knife was so dull that she could not cut herself, although the intention to do bodily injury was evident.

After much hard work, the Captain having "too much" "blue blood" in his veins to "strike a woman," she was placed in the city prison. A short time afterwards the Captain looked into her cell and found her trying to pick an artery with a pin. Too much "pizen" is the cause of it.

"Alvin Joslyn."

As announced in the advertising columns of this paper, Charles L. Davis, the well known portrayer of the New England character, will appear at Turn Verein Hall next Saturday night in the character of Alvin Joslyn. The play not only possesses the virtue of being new, but it is generally spoken of as being a faithful representation of Yankee scenes and characters. The style of the comedy is similar to Denham Thompson's "Uncle Josh."

Riverside Enterprise.

The people of Riverside, with that spirit of enterprise and progress which has always characterized that exceptional colony, are now forming a joint stock company for the erection of a hall for the holding of horticultural fairs and other entertainments. ## A Short Case.

The trial of the Mexican, Contreras, for grand larceny, was very suddenly ended in Judge Sepulveda's Court yesterday. A jury was sworn, and the testimony of the prosecuting witness taken. The Court then instructed the jury that the evidence was not strong enough to hold the defendant. The jury after a few minutes' consultation in their seats, discharged the defendant.

Did the gentle reader ever try to write a love letter while a patent medicine man was under his window howling like a Pinta Indian chasing grasshoppers? If so, there will be a spark of sympathy kindled in his bosom for the editorial staff of the TIMES.

A COUSIN OF SCOVILLE.

And what He Says about Guiteau and His Counsel.

An interesting interview with James W. Scoville of Chicago—Guiteau's Cousin—Scoville Denounced.

Last Sunday Jas. W. Scoville, a prominent banker of Chicago, arrived in Los Angeles. A reporter of the TIMES, noticing his name among the hotel arrivals, was convinced that he was some relative of the Guiteau-Scoville family and determined to give him a call. Mr. Scoville was approached at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, where he is stopping, and cautiously interviewed. He is a prepossessing gentleman in appearance, large and fine looking, of perhaps fifty years of age. He shows cultivation in address and is evidently finely educated. He is of the old school and possesses refinement and polish to an unusual degree. No one could for a moment associate him with Guiteau or Scoville from his appearance or actions.

Mr. Scoville is well known in Chicago, where he has resided for many years. He was much surprised to have a newspaper man visit him, a stranger in a strange land, and when the news-gatherer said: "I believe you are a cousin to George Scoville, the defender of Guiteau," in much astonishment he replied:

"I would like to know who told you that I was a relation of that man?"

"I don't believe that I can detect a resemblance in you to him, but you bear the same name and are from the same place. Are you not?"

"Well, yes; I am a cousin of George Scoville, but I don't want to talk about the matter. I want you to understand I am not in sympathy with the assassin Guiteau or with his attorney, although I have known him up to within the past five years, when we had business troubles. He was my attorney and confidential friend. But he got very much in debt through the extravagance of his wife, and failed for a large sum of money. About $80,000 I think. I lost a great deal through him, but would have helped him had he not been in the habit of using money entrusted to him, which caused me to lose confidence in his honor."

"It has been reported that he was spending money on the defense of Guiteau. Are you prepared to say whether he has any means to use in that way?"

"You remember that the case was postponed at one time to give Mrs. Scoville an opportunity to mortgage her husband's place to raise means to carry on her brother's defense. Well, I know that the place was then heavily mortgaged, and had been for years."

"Did your family take any action when George Scoville volunteered to defend Guiteau?"

"That is a personal question and doesn't concern any one."

"But how did the family take it?"

"They have had nothing to do with George's family for years. Even his son doesn't stay in the same office with his father."

"His son is a lawyer, is he not?"

"Yes, he is a very promising young man and a rising attorney."

"How does he feel towards uncle Guiteau?"

"Since he was a little child his parents have been unable to get him to call Guiteau 'Uncle Julius.' He has never liked him, and was very much when his father volunteered as his attorney."

"You say that you have known Guiteau for a long time; how intimately have you known him?"

"We were schoolmates together, and I knew him so well that I can almost read his thoughts during the present trial."

"Do you think he is insane?"

"No; I believe he planned the murder of Garfield with as clear a brain as any man in the United States. He saw a chance to make a world-wide reputation and embraced the opportunity, thinking Arthur would get him out of the scrape."

"Do you think your cousin, George Scoville, volunteered to act as counsel for his brother-in-law?"

"No; he was forced to act by his wife."

"What kind of a lawyer is Scoville?"

"As a business lawyer he is very good."

"What do you mean by a business lawyer?"

"An office lawyer. In drawing up pleadings, papers, etc., he was always considered good. But as a criminal lawyer he has always been considered poor. I was in hope he would have to be the case alone, as I am anxious to see Guiteau hung."

Mr. Scoville talked at length about the character of Guiteau, describing him as egotistical and selfish. His whole object in life was to secure notoriety, by fair or foul means, and he said that the assassin had now probably reached the pedestal of his ambition.

A Cowboy's Capers.

Monday at 2 P. M. as Chief Gard was wending his way up through Sonora town, the cries of men, women and children attracted his attention. He hastened to the west of war and found one of those Arizona beauties, commonly called "Cowboys," with a knife eighteen inches long, running the Mexican citizens up and down the streets. After a long fight he succeeded in getting the fellow, and placed him in the "jug."

Condition of Donald.

Donald, the man who was shot last week at Santa Monica, by the school teacher, Williams, was reported yesterday afternoon to be very low. The ball has not yet been found and it is expected that he will not live.

In The Front Rank.

Among the stable dividend banks of the city, the Pacific Bank, corner of Pine and Sansome streets, San Francisco, has long held a leading position there. This year's operations place it still more to the front, having been the most successful of its very successful career. Its success is the result of judicious and intelligent management, combining enterprise with a rigid adherence to sound business principles. Continuing under the same management, with ample resources and unsurpassed facilities for doing a general banking business its future is more brilliant than ever before.

Death of Wm. H. Pinkham.

Wm. H. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., a son of Lydia Pinkham, of patent medicine fame, died at the St. Charles Hotel last Saturday. He came to this city a few weeks ago, hoping to be benefited in health as he was in the last stages of that terrible disease consumption. The remainder are being embalmed by Messrs. Ponet & Orr. The young widow is expecting her brother every day, who will conduct her to her mother.

To Prepare a Petition.

By request of the people who met at the M. E. Church last Sunday evening, the clergy of this city will meet at the study of the Rev. E. S. Chase this afternoon at 2 o'clock to prepare a petition to present to the common council at its meeting Saturday evening asking for the enforcement of the Sunday law.

TRUNK THIEVES.

A Descendant of Dan O'Connor Leads His "Pals" to Defeat.

Thomas O'Connor, closely related to the great O'Connor, "so he says, with Thos. Conklin and Chas. Tobens, his "pals," started out to make a little money last night. Thomas saw a big "spec" in the trunk line.

"Charlie me by" do ye see the store 'furnist the corner?" said Capt. Tom.

"I do that same thing then."

"Will you an Tim get one of them thrunks restin on the sidewalk an I'll meat ye around at the barbers shop, an will sell out."

Thomas waited to see his "pals" get the trunk. He then started for the place of meeting, but joined them before they got more than ten steps from Jacoby Bros. store, where they stole the trunk. They sold the trunk to a barber on First street for $1.00 and were preparing to have a "time" when officer Fletcher stepped in and put the terrible hand of the law on Capt. Tom. Officers Benito came to his assistance and they took the three birds to the lock-up.

Baptist Church contemplate a series of entertainments, to begin the 1st inst. One of the novel features will be a dolls' festival, and

Louis. A skilled tenor commands nearly $1,000 a year in the most fashionable churches; baritone, $800; alto, $600; and soprano from

A LADY'S BOYCOTTING.

Mrs. Beattie's Efforts to Amend the Decrees of Paris.
A novel boycotting experiment is in progress in the heart of England, and ought to immortalize the name of the chief agitator, Lady Beattie, as the deeds of the famous Irish Captain have established his in the language. The woolen manufacturers of Britain are in a state of extraordinary depression. The "Fair Traders" make this fact the center of some of their most persistent demonstrations. Lady Beattie and a few others of the nobility, however, paying no attention to hostile tariffs, but laying the hard times of Bradford to changes of fashion, have patriotically set to work to annul the decrees of Paris.
Until a few years the "luster wools," which form the staple of the Bradford trade, were everywhere sought for dress goods. Then Parisian fashion oracles declared that a dull material, made of foreign wool, and to a considerable extent in England, must take the place of luster fabrics. Laws promulgated there are more inviolable than those of the Medes and Persians, and the English long-wool manufacturers, in the opinion of my lady and her friends, languish for this reason only.
It is sadly to be feared that Lady Beattie's success in her efforts to persuade English women to ignore Paris, and resume the use of the lustrous goods, will not be so great as her motives are good. Everybody knows how plainly the Princess of Wales clothes her family, but she has lately declined to take part in a movement that bids fair to be futile.

TELEPHONES IN DEMAND.

The Manager of the Stockton Company Greatly Perplexed.
[Stockton Mail.]
The Central Pacific Railroad Company's depot has been connected with the subscribers of the Stockton Telephone Company, and has been numbered 23. Connection has also been made with Simpson & Gray's office, which has been numbered 24. The female proprietor of a maison de mod on El Dorado street, known as the Palace, sent word to the Central office of the telephone company this morning that she would like to have a telephone put up in her house. The gentleman in charge of the office scratched his head for awhile and said that he did not know what to do about the matter. He fancied that some day a message might be sent over the wires to certain business offices inquiring for Jim or Tom or John, and asking whether Jim or Tom or John was coming down to that little champagne supper in the evening.
If Mrs. Jim or Tom or John should be present and happen to receive the message there might be some articles for the newspapers and much work for the lawyers. The cautious manager had not made up his mind at last accounts.

Making Postal Cards.

The newly-established postal card factory at Castleton, in Rensselaer county, New York, employs about 130 men and women, who, assisted by the machinery, dispose of 18,000 pounds of paper and manufacture 3,250,000 postal cards, every twenty-four hours.
The contract calls for 2,000,000 cards in four years, and was awarded the Fort Orange Paper Company. To manufacture the requisite pasteboards, 12,500, 000 pounds of paper will be used. One mill runs day and night. The paper machine, which is the largest and most complete in the United States, has proved its capability by turning out a web of over twelve miles in length without a break.

Wealthy Bostonians.

Last year there were 1,394 persons in Boston who paid taxes on over $1,000,000 worth of property, and of these 193 were women. From this it will be seen that about 15 per cent of the taxpayers of Boston who pay on over $1,000,000 are women, and it is estimated that there are altogether 8,000 female taxpayers at the hub.
About eighty tons of ore are daily extracted from the Savage mine on the Comstock and about 100 tons daily shipped to the Santiago mill. The water which flowed from the main incline into the drift from the 2,400-foot level of the Combination shaft has stopped.

A. P. More recently discovered seventy human skulls in one spot on Santa Rosa Island, the wind having removed the earth which covered them. The relics are of the old Aborigine races who inhabited the island.
Indian Agent Lawson has distributed 30 plover among the various tribes in his agency.

Greatest Wonder of the Age!

NEW ELECTRO-MEDICAL

pliances for the cure of disease. We challenge the world to produce its equal. Physicians ap-
